Graphics Software That Won't Cost You an Arm And a Leg!

For the typical user, other expensive graphics programs aren't practical. Corel has targeted the most important functions people will need and built them into their program.

Other photo editing programs are over seven times the price of PaintShop Pro. This is because they are designed for very high-end users that work as industry professionals. These programs are overloaded with sophisticated tools and functions that can take several years to learn.

The average person doesn't use but a fraction of these complex tools! Not only that, but every 2 years these programs get upgraded with more tools, which take even more time to learn. Why would you want to spend more money on expensive graphics functions you'll probably never use?
